Burnet News Club

Our resident art critic (a.k.a. Megan Handley) has written two more interesting blogs full of thought provoking questions for the Burnet News Club. What do you think, do you agree? You can comment via the Burnet News Club or you could email your teachers with your response.

Do you like graffiti? If so, why? I kind of like graffiti, because it expresses art. :) What I don't like is that some people write rude messages on public buildings. :(Some people will disagree, and graffiti just expresses emotions. Which I'm not against, as different people have different opinions. Also, would you consider that graffiti-ing public buildings with a picture like this:

A crime? Do you think that graffiti should be banned? Or do you think it should be expressed more often? Personally, I think, in each country, there should be an area where all the public artists (graffiti-ers) could spray paint anything they want on the walls of this area. Disagree? Let me know in the comments below. So, what do you think? Is graffiti good or bad?

Hello! I have focused this post on natural art, NOT made by humans. Oh, and I don't mind if you disagree with my opinions!

How can animals make art?

Animals can make art with a pattern of pawprints, or a 'display' of bones off an animal they have eaten! 😞 It can be as simple as a scratch on a tree. A cat 🐱 could play with a pile of leaves and make an abstract picture. Even a bird's nest can be art.

Is that considered art?

It depends. If you consider everything I have just mentioned art, you are a very open-minded person. If you don't, your not not open-minded, but you could be more. Expand your mind! Think about things, and see how you can change!

Have humans ruined this?

In my opinion, they haven't. Sure, we've ruined habitats, but we haven't destroyed their freedom. Yet. In zoos, they still are free to do everything I mentioned (see paragraph 1), as they are given natural things. But humans are very bad. We have built buildings, destroying habitats, killed animals, even brought species to extinction! E.g, the Elephant Seal was nearly driven to extinction, but hunting was banned a few decades ago.

I hope I have given you something to think about.
